Guardian Angels

Catholics believe that God entrusts each of us to the care of a Guardian Angel, a spiritual companion who protects and guides us toward God. The Church celebrates the Memorial of the Holy Guardian Angels on October 2. Our Guardian Angels remind us of God's loving care and encourage us to listen for His guidance each day.

Conferences

Parent-Teacher Conferences will take place November 23–25. Conferences are an important part of our school year, and all Queen of Angels families are expected to attend a conference for their child(ren).

Conference sign-ups will be sent home next week, so please watch for information about selecting a conference time.

Your student's teacher will be preparing thoughtfully for conferences by reviewing classroom performance, student work, assessment data, progress toward grade-level expectations, and individual goals.

Most importantly, conferences are about partnership, not perfection. Our students thrive when they know the adults in their lives are working together—cheering them on, holding them accountable, celebrating their growth, and helping them through challenges.

Thank you for making your child's conference a priority. We are grateful to partner with you in helping each Queen of Angels student grow academically, socially, and spiritually.

MAP Reports Coming Home Before Conferences

Student MAP Growth reports will be sent home Friday, October 30, if you have not already received your child's report. We encourage families to take some time to review these results together. MAP data is one of several tools our teachers use to understand student growth, identify strengths and areas for continued development, and plan instruction and support.

EXTRA, EXTRA – Volunteer Thank YOU!

Thank you to all of our volunteers that helped with social hour after Mass this past Sunday and to all the volunteers at Fall Festival.

Both events had great volunteer turnout.

Don't forget to log your volunteer hours on the sheet enclosed in the newsletter today!

More forms available in the school office.

Many families are well on their way to their 40 hours for the school year!

Principal Post

As we close October and look toward November, we enter a beautiful stretch of the Church's liturgical year. All Saints' Day on November 1 reminds us of the great communion of saints and the many different ways ordinary people have answered God's call to holiness. All Souls' Day follows on November 2, inviting us to remember and pray for the faithful departed. Later in the month, we celebrate the Solemnity of Our Lord Jesus Christ, King of the Universe on November 22, bringing the liturgical year to a close before beginning a new one with the First Sunday of Advent on November 29. November gives us a wonderful opportunity to help our students understand that the Church has its own rhythm of remembering, celebrating, preparing, and beginning again.

November also brings an important opportunity for partnership between home and school through our Parent-Teacher Conferences. I encourage every family to approach this time as an opportunity not only to hear how your child is doing, but also to share what you are seeing at home, ask questions, celebrate growth, and discuss areas where additional support may be needed.

These conversations are particularly important when a student is experiencing academic difficulty. Teachers and families can review classroom performance, assessment data, interventions already in place, and possible next steps together. In some cases, those conversations may help us determine whether additional school-based services, interventions, or further evaluation through the local school district should be considered. Addressing concerns early and working together gives us the best opportunity to respond thoughtfully to each student's individual needs.

As we begin looking ahead to the Advent and Christmas seasons, I also want to share an early update about our Christmas Program. This year's program will be held at a new location rather than in the church. We are currently working to finalize a space that will allow our students and families to gather and celebrate this special tradition together, and we will share those details as soon as they are confirmed. The date of the Christmas Program will not change, so families may continue to plan using the date already published on our school calendar. For now, simply consider the location TBD—more information is coming soon!

As October comes to a close, I am grateful for the partnership you continue to share with us. I look forward to a November filled with remembrance, gratitude, growth, and preparation as we move together toward Advent.

With gratitude,
Ceci Kimball - Principal

All Souls' Day

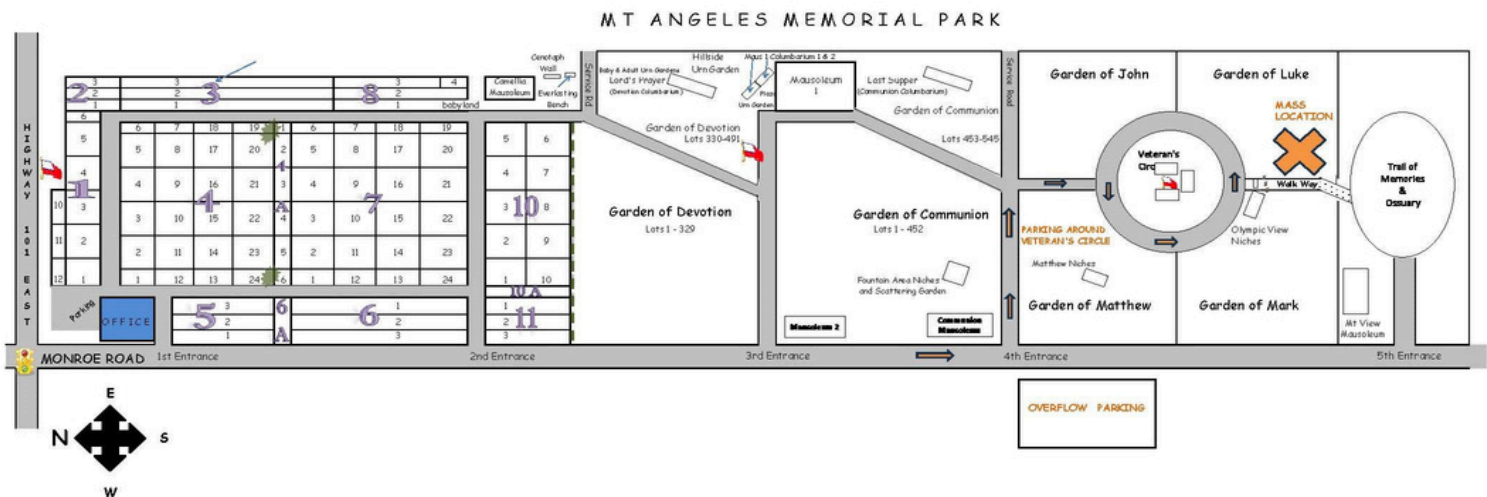

November is the month we pray for our dearly departed. Last week we published a roster of parishioners who had passed away since All Souls Day 2025. Please see it at <https://clallamcatholic.org/wp-content/uploads/2026/10/2026-10-18-combined.pdf>. If you know of any other parishioners who died in the past year, please contact the parish office by Friday, October 30th, so that we may remember them during the All Souls Day novena.

Fr. Maurer will be offering Mass at 3 locations for All Souls Day.
